Story 015

One afternoon, a rich man was riding in the back of his limousine when he saw a man eating grass by the road. He ordered his driver to stop, got out, and asked the poor man, "Why are you eating grass?"

"We don't have any money for food," he replied.

"Oh, come along with me then."

"But sir, I have a wife with six children!"

"Then bring them along."

When they all climbed into the limo, the poor man said,

"Sir, you are too kind. Thank you so much for taking us with you."

The rich man replied, "My pleasure. The grass at my house is about two meters tall."

Story 016

Pete, the Governor's most trusted assistant, died one night.

The Governor had depended on Pete for advice on every subject, and Pete had been his closest friend as well.

At the funeral, while the burial was going on, one ambitious office seeker made her way to the Governor's side and whispered,

"Governor, is there a chance that I could take Pete's place?"

"Certainly," the Governor replied. "But you'd better hurry. I think the undertaker is almost finished."
